REGIONAL DISTRIBUTION SUMMARY

FOOD DISTRIBUTION SUMMARY

REGION VI

Nearly 93% of the food consumed in FEMA Region VI is warehoused within the region. The table below summarizes the source and magnitude of all shipments from warehouses to supermarkets within the region. Three of the five states in FEMA Region VI ( Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas) are largely self-sufficient, warehousing between 75% to 97% of their food supplies within their own borders. New Mexico and Arkansas are heavily dependent on out-of-state warehouses for food shipments, with less than one-third of their food supplies stored within their state boundaries. Close to half of New Mexico's food is warehoused in Texas, while 15% comes from Colorado in Region VIII, highlighting a need for interstate as well as interregional coordination. In the case of Arkansas, over half of its food stocks are warehoused outside the region (Tennessee and Mississippi in Region IV, and Missouri in Region VII) so that interregional coordination will be required.

STATE SUMMARIES FOR FEMA REGION VI

ARKANSAS SUMMARY

The statistical profile of food distribution in Region VI shows that Arkansas is heavily dependent on warehouses outside the state for its food supplies. Only 32% of the food currently reaching Arkansas residents is warehoused within the state. The two major out-of-state suppliers are Tennessee (Region IV), which warehouses 28% of Arkansas' food stocks, and Missouri (Region VII), which supplies 23% of Arkansas' needs. In addition to Tennessee and Missouri, other Region VI states (Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas) account for 14% of the food consumed in Arkansas. Thus interstate as well as interregional coordination will be required in planning for the distribution of food to Arkansas residents under crisis relocation conditions.

Within Arkansas, Safeway Stores Inc., one of the top ten distributors in Region VI, accounts for 18% of Arkansas' food supplies. An additional 8 distributors in Arkansas account for 12% of the food stored for in-state consumption. Most of the food warehoused in other states is in the hands of 4 distributors in Tennessee, 6 in Missouri, and more than 10 distributors in Louisiana, Oklahoma, Texas and Mississippi.

The statistical profile describing food distribution in Region VI, coupled with the FEMA food distribution guidelines, provide nuclear civil protection planners with a feasible approach for reallocating food supplies under conditions of crisis relocation. This statistical profile can be used to modify the Arkansas food support annex to include food distribution details which are consistent with regional food distribution patterns.

LOUISIANA SUMMARY

The statistical profile of food distribution in Region VI shows that the supermarkets of Louisiana are largely served by warehouses located within the state. Approximately 75% of the food currently reaching Louisiana residents is warehoused within the boundaries of the state. The major out-of-state supplier is Texas, which warehouses 15% of Louisiana's food supplies, primarily serving the risk areas of Baton Rouge, Lake Charles and Shreveport. Thus there will be some requirement for interstate coordination in these risk areas.

Within Louisiana, Winn-Dixie Stores Inc., one of the top ten distributors in Region VI, accounts for 14% of the food stored for in-state consumption. An additional 58% of Louisiana's food stocks is spread among 19 distributors. Most of the food warehoused in other states is in the hands of 7 distributors in Texas, and more than 7 in Arkansas, Oklahoma, Alabama, Mississippi and Tennessee.

The statistical profile describing food distribution in Region VI, coupled with the FEMA food distribution guidelines, provide nuclear civil protection planners with a feasible approach for reallocating food supplies under conditions of crisis relocation. This statistical profile can be used to modify the Louisiana food support annex to include food distribution details which are consistent with regional food distribution patterns.

NEW MEXICO SUMMARY

The statistical profile of food distribution in Region VI shows that New Mexico is heavily dependent on warehouses outside the state for its food supplies. Only 28% of the food currently reaching New Mexico residents is warehoused within the state. The major out-of-state supplier is Texas, which warehouses 49% of New Mexico's food supply, serving residents in almost every county, including the major urbanized risk area of Albuquerque. In addition to Texas, distributors located in Colorado (Region VIII) supply 15% of the food consumed in New Mexico. Thus interstate as well as interregional coordination will be required in planning for the distribution of food to New Mexico residents under crisis relocation conditions.

Within New Mexico, two major distributors, Associated Grocers of Colorado and Western Grocers, account for 27% of the food stored for in-state consumption. Most of the food warehoused in other states is in the hands of 6 distributors: 3 in Texas, 2 in Colorado, and more than 1 in Oklahoma, Arizona, Utah, Kentucky and Minnesota.

The statistical profile describing food distribution in Region VI, coupled with the FEMA food distribution guidelines, provide nuclear civil protection planners with a feasible approach for reallocating food supplies under conditions of crisis relocation. This statistical profile can be used to modify the New Mexico food support annex to include food distribution details which are consistent with regional food distribution patterns.

OKLAHOMA SUMMARY

The statistical profile of food distribution in Region VI shows that the supermarkets of Oklahoma are largely served by warehouses located within the state. Approximately 86% of the food currently reaching Oklahoma residents is warehoused within the boundaries of the state. The major out-of-state supplier is Texas, which supplies 7% of Oklahoma's food, primarily serving the risk areas of Tulsa and Oklahoma City. Thus there will be some requirement for interstate coordination in these risk areas.

Three of the top ten distributors in Region VI (Safeway Stores Inc., Fleming Co. and Scrivner Inc.) have warehouses in Oklahoma. These distributors account for 55% of the food stored for in-state consumption. An additional 7 distributors account for another 28% of Oklahoma's food supplies. Most of the food warehoused in other states is in the hands of 6 distributors in Texas, and more than 9 distributors in Missouri, Kansas, Kentucky, Ohio, Arkansas and Louisiana.

The statistical profile describing food distribution in Region VI, coupled with the FEMA food distribution guidelines, provide nuclear civil protection planners with a feasible approach for reallocating food supplies under conditions of crisis relocation. This statistical profile can be used to modify the Oklahoma food support annex to include food distribution details which are consistent with regional food distribution patterns.

TEXAS SUMMARY

The statistical profile of food distribution in Region VI shows that the supermarkets of Texas are largely served by warehouses located within the state. Approximately 97% of the food currently reaching Texas residents is warehoused within the boundaries of the state. The remaining 3% of Texas' food stocks come from a variety of distributors scattered among 8 states. Thus little interstate coordination will be required in planning for the distribution of food to Texas residents under crisis relocation conditions. Besides being self-sufficient, Texas plays an important role in the food supplies of other Region VI states, supplying 15% of the food consumed in Louisiana, and almost half of the food consumed in New Mexico.

Every one of the top ten distributors in Region VI have warehouses in Texas. These distributors account for 70% of the food stored for in-state consumption. An additional 24 distributors account for another 25% of Texas' food supplies. The small amount of food that is warehoused outside its borders is scattered among more than 11 distributors in Louisiana, Oklahoma, Arkansas, New Mexico, Kentucky, Mississippi, California and Kansas.

The statistical profile describing food distribution in Region VI, coupled with the FEMA food distribution guidelines, provide nuclear civil protection planners with a feasible approach for reallocating food supplies under conditions of crisis relocation. This statistical profile can be used to modify the Texas food support annex to include food distribution details which are consistent with regional food distribution patterns.

APPENDIX D

SAMPLE REALLOCATION PLAN FOR
THE DALLAS RISK AREA CONGLOMERATE

INTRODUCTION

Nuclear Civil Protection (NCP) Planning encompasses two strategies: in-place protection and crisis relocation. Under the crisis relocation strategy, people from areas threatened by a high risk of nuclear attack will be relocated to hosting areas judged to be safely removed from the hazardous effects of nuclear explosion. The existing food distribution system must then be adjusted and reconfigured to meet the needs of the relocated population.

This plan has been developed to provide a quantitative picture of food distribution networks serving the Dallas risk area and its host counties before and after relocation. It discusses the adjustments and strategies entailed in the proposed reallocation plan. In addition, it addresses the problem of transportation stress experienced by major distributors as a result of the reconfiguration of the existing food distribution system.

DALLAS RISK AREA CONGLOMERATE
SUMMARY OF EXISTING FOOD DISTRIBUTION SYSTEM

Under crisis relocation conditions, approximately 1,246,000 residents currently living in the Dallas risk area will have to relocate to lower-risk host counties in Texas and Oklahoma. Exhibit 1 illustrates the evacuation pattern of the Dallas risk area.

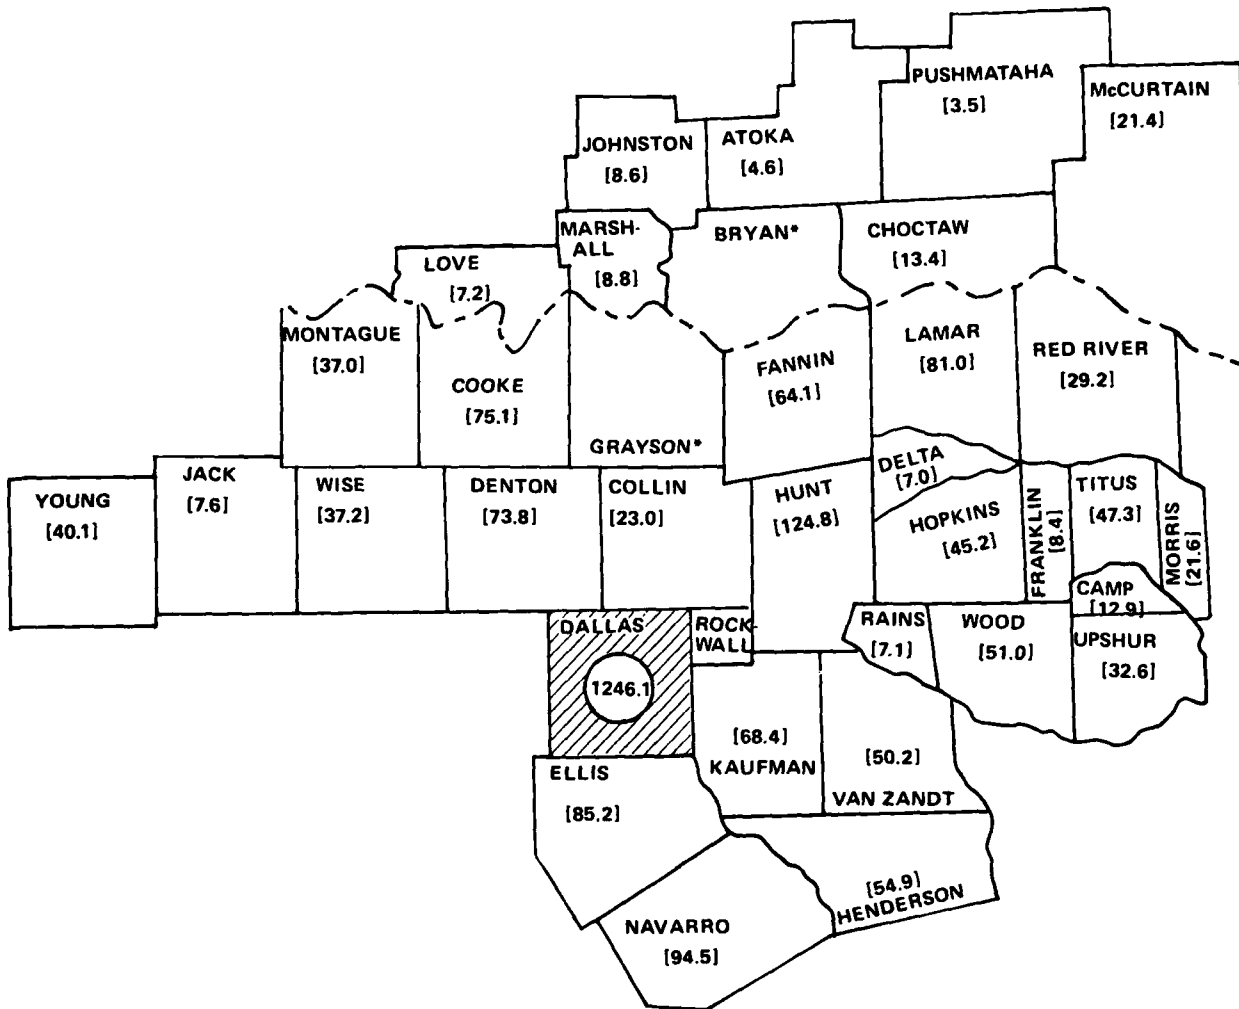

The statistical profile of food distribution in the Dallas Risk Area Conglomerate shows that area residents are largely served by warehouses located within the Conglomerate. Approximately 78% of the food currently reaching area residents is warehoused within the county boundary of Dallas. An additional 18% of the area's food stocks come from within the state of Texas, mainly from Fort Worth, Tyler, and Houston. The small amount of food (4%) that is warehoused outside the state boundaries is scattered among a variety of distributors in Oklahoma, Kentucky, Louisiana, Ohio and New Mexico.

Within the Conglomerate, Safeway Stores, Kroger Co. and A W Cullum Co., which maintain warehouses in or near the city of Dallas, account for almost half of the food stored for in-area consumption. These three distributors supply roughly 54% of the food consumed in the Dallas risk areas, and 35% of the food consumed in the host counties (See Exhibit 2). An additional 4 distributors (Affiliated Food Stores, American Store, Jewel Food Stores and Minyard Food Stores) located in Dallas county account for another 30% of the area's food stocks. The current annual sales volume of each distributor serving the conglomerate is listed by county in Attachment A-1.

Of the three major distributors, Safeway Stores supplies almost 22% of the Conglomerate's retail food stores, while A W Cullum Co. and Kroger Co. each commands over 10% of the market (14% and 11% respectively). Though the geographic area covered by Safeway's Dallas warehouse is larger than Kroger's Irving warehouse, both distributors serve primarily a variety of counties in the north-eastern portion of Texas, including the risk areas of Fort Worth, Tyler, and Sherman-Denison. In addition, a small portion of their stocks serve the risk area of Shreveport in Louisiana. The service area of A W Cullum's Dallas warehouse is much smaller. Almost three-quarters<sup>1</sup> of their stocks are reserved for residents in Dallas County, with the remaining stocks scattered among six other counties in Colorado, including the risk areas of Austin and Fort Worth.

<sup>1</sup> The annual sales figure of A W Cullum's Dallas warehouse has been revised, based on the 1981 edition of Supermarket News (published by Fairchild Publishing Co., New York). More recent statistics supplied by the distributor's representative suggest that it is currently the largest food supplier for Dallas County.

MAJOR SOURCES OF SUPPLY TO DALLAS RISK AREA CONGLOMERATE CURRENT DISTRIBUTION PATTERN

DALLAS RISK AREA CONGLOMERATE
PROPOSED FOOD DISTRIBUTION SYSTEM ADJUSTMENTS
FOR CRISIS RELOCATION

The chief adjustment in the food distribution system in support of the crisis relocation strategy entails the shift of supplies from risk area retail outlets to host area retail outlets and mass feeding centers. In general, Dallas wholesale warehouses serving the conglomerate population before evacuation will continue to do so after evacuation by shifting deliveries from their risk area stores to their host area stores. The market of the three major distributors serving the Dallas conglomerate under relocation is displayed in Exhibit 3. Food will be delivered to relocatees through a combination of retail outlets and mass feeding centers. Wholesale warehouses with no host-area outlets will supply mass feeding centers directly. Major food processing activities in the risk area will continue operations throughout the evacuation period.

In addition to the redirection of flow suggested in the plan, distributors should consider using a shuttle system in which full trailers are left in the host area as storage depots, emptied, and replaced with another trailer load on the return trip. This mode of operation is currently used by some distribution centers in the Houston risk area on a day-to-day basis. The shuttling of trailers in this fashion would alleviate much of the need for additional food storage space in the host area, but it could increase the requirement for trailers as much as 100%, depending on the transportation stress level experienced by individual warehouse. Another modification would involve redirecting incoming shipments to available warehouse space in the host area. Emergency warehouse space can be converted from available unused buildings or commandeered from less critical industries in the host areas. This would decrease the vulnerability of the food stocks to nuclear attack and should be incorporated into the reallocation plan whenever adequate space is available in the host areas. NCP planners surveying the host areas should be on the lookout for suitable warehouse space.

Exhibit 4 shows the revised distribution plans for the six major distributors serving the Dallas conglomerate. These plans have been expressed both in terms of a percentage increase in shipments to the distributor's stores in individual counties, and in terms of the estimated increase in tonnage of essential commodities going to each county. Host area residents and evacuees lodged with host area residents, will obtain food through their customary retail outlets. Evacuees lodged in congregate care facilities will obtain food through a combination of mass feeding centers and retail outlets.

Section 3.B.2 tabulates the percentage of truck capacity by weight and volume devoted to the shipment of critical foodstuffs. As an additional planning aid, this information is broken down into case- and pallet-loadings for two truckloads capable of feeding 3,800 citizens (See Attachment B). Suggested shipping guidelines on essential foodstuffs for wholesalers serving the host area retail outlets may be found in Section 3.B.1.

Although the total post-relocation demand for food in each county can be estimated in advance, the exact split between mass feeding centers and retail outlets will not be known until the relocation is accomplished. The need for Mass Feeding Centers is largest in host areas where they host a proportionally large number of evacuees and/or where their existing retail outlets are not served by the same distributors as in the risk areas. In the case of the Dallas Risk Area Conglomerate, the need for Mass Feeding Centers is largest in Hunt, Fannin, Cooke, Denton, Lamar, Navarro, Kaufman and Ellis Counties. These eight counties host almost 55% of the total risk population. The demand for food in these host areas is likely to exceed the capacity of the local retail outlets. The outlets of the major distributors (A W Cullum Co., Safeway Stores, Kroger Co., Minyard Food Stores, American Stores and Affiliated Food Stores) in the host areas will experience demand increases equal to or in excess of 500% in the absence of Mass Feeding Centers. Hence the establishment of Mass Feeding Centers should be an integral part of the planning process in these counties. In the absence of mass feeding centers, retail store throughput is likely to exceed 500% of normal demand in a dozen or so other counties in Texas<sup>2</sup>, and in Choctaw, McCurtain, Love, Johnston and Pushmataha counties in Oklahoma. Hence mass feeding centers should receive high planning priorities in these counties as well.

<sup>2</sup> Other counties that might require the setup of mass feeding centers include Hopkins, Montague, Morris, Red River, Wood, Young, Van Zandt, Camp, Delta, Franklin, Jack, Rains and Titus.

Implications : No increase in drivers or equipment is required. By utilizing the transportation equipment to capacity, it is estimated that up to 40% of the existing trailers could be spotted for on-site storage in the host area. If more trailers are to be used for storage, it is estimated that one extra trailer will be needed for each additional trailer used in this manner.

DALLAS RISK AREA CONGLOMERATE TRANSPORTATION STRESS

To explore quantitatively the extent of the strain placed on the local delivery system of a warehouse as a result of crisis relocation, a transportation stress factor (defined as the ratio of post-evacuation ton-miles to pre-evacuation ton-miles) has been estimated for the six major distributors serving the Dallas Risk Area Conglomerate. From the standpoint of the Dallas Risk Area, the transportation stress factor can be considered to have two components:

- (1) Additional mileage imposed by the movement of Dallas residents away from their normal source of supply.
- (2) Mileage requirements imposed by the continued operation of the remaining distribution network, some of which will be reconfigured in response to other risk area movements.

The transportation stress imposed by the relocation of Dallas alone ranges from 1.5 in the case of Affiliated Food Stores' Dallas warehouse to a level of 5.2 in the case of American Stores' Richardson warehouse. These stress factors would be cause for concern if they represented the entire distribution volume of these warehouses. However, food shipments into the Dallas Risk Area Conglomerate account for only one-third of the sales from the American's Richardson and Affiliated Food Stores' Dallas warehouses, and less than 60% of the warehouses of Safeway and Kroger. Remaining shipments from these warehouses are scattered throughout Texas, Louisiana, and Oklahoma, and are not significantly affected by crisis relocation. The relative stability of these long distance shipments will serve to offset the effects of movement out of the Dallas conglomerate. In order to assess the consequences of crisis relocation on a particular warehouse, the transportation stress factor must be computed for the entire geographic area served by the warehouse.

Although the detailed evaluation of other Dallas risk conglomerates was beyond the scope of the current study, it is possible to develop a rough estimate of transportation stress for the remainder of each distributor's service area by using approximation techniques developed in earlier SYSTAN work (Food System Support of the Relocation Strategy, September, 1975). Using this technique, the total transportation stress for the six major Dallas distributors can be estimated. Safeway (Dallas), Kroger (Irving), Affiliated Food Stores (Dallas), and American Stores (Richardson) would experience a stress factor of 1.4 or less, while A W Cullum's Dallas and Minyard's Coppell warehouses would incur a stress level of 2.0 and 2.2 respectively. Since research has shown that existing transportation equipment is not generally used to capacity, driver and vehicle productivity can be increased by relaxing regulatory constraints (e.g. relaxing driver restrictions and weight limitations) and improving utilization of existing equipment (e.g. shipping only full-pallet loads; eliminating slack in current vehicle schedule; relaxing maintenance requirements; shipping only essential items; and eliminating light loads). By implementing these productivity improvements, it is estimated that 30% increase in drivers is needed at the A W Cullum's Dallas warehouse, while a 45% increase in drivers is required at the Minyard's Coppell warehouse. No increase in drivers or equipment is needed for the other four distributors.

Whenever trailers are shuttled and used for host area storage, it is estimated that one additional trailer will be needed for each trailer employed for storage if the transportation stress level experienced by the warehouse exceeds 1.8. As the stress level falls below 1.8, some existing trailers may become available for host area storage. The number of trailers which can be used in this fashion increases as the stress level drops. At a stress level of 1.0, it is estimated that as much as 50% of the existing trailer fleet could be used for on-site storage in the host areas.
